The goal of decolonial education is for Mignolo to render students aware of the world in which they live unconsciously. Historical injustices deeply were applied...

They were thus able to react quickly and without passing the red carpet if local constellations changed.