

Module 2: GEI PhD Candidate Day

This aim of this module is for the doctoral candidates to present their current research to their colleagues at the Institute. The annual presentation to experienced academics and heads of projects and departments provides the doctoral candidates with valuable feedback on the current state of their thesis research. They also gain a more detailed insight into other research projects being conducted by the GEI and can hone their presentation skills in an academic arena. This interdisciplinary event also encourages networking among the doctoral candidates.

- › Format: annual one-day event at the GEI with different presentation formats for doctoral candidates depending on the stage they have reached in their PhD.
 - 1st year of PhD: knowledge café
 - 2nd year of PhD: poster or presentation
 - From the 3rd year onwards: presentation

- › Attendance: this module is obligatory
